There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the health service, and to ensure that the health service is able to meet the needs of the population in a cost-effective manner. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of the Health Service Act 1990, which introduced a new framework for the health service, and the introduction of the Health Service Act 1997, which introduced a new framework for the health service. These initiatives have led to a number of changes in the way the health service is organised and managed, and to a number of changes in the way the health service is funded.
